Tremendous Air Duels Feature Raids on Northern Seaports

Eleven German Planes Shot Down, British Lose 8 Spitfires

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—Hundreds of British and German fighters—Spitfires against Messerschmitts and the Nazi's newest Focke-Wulf 190s—engaged in tremendous air duels over northern France today as the RAF carried out intensive bomber and strafing raids on the Abbeville airdrome and the St. Malo docks.

Eleven German planes including three Focke-Wulf fighters were shot down in the dogfight. Four Messerschmitts fell to American eagle squadron pilots, Flight Lieut. S. R. Edner, of San Jose, Calif., and Pilot Officer Barry Mahon, of Santa Barbara. Each got two.

Norwegians flying with the British accounted for three of the Nazi planes.

The British lost eight Spitfires. Nazis Resume Raids

German airmen meanwhile returned to their attack on England with assaults officially described as part of a new sustained Nazi aerial offensive.

The communique describing the British raids on France said squadrons after squadrons of Douglas Boston bombers crossed the channel with heavy Spitfire escorts. Many hits were noted at Abbeville where some of the most vicious dogfights developed.

No planes were lost in the latter raids on St. Malo and other parts of Brittany in which many more squadrons took part.

An official warning of heavy and continuing Nazi air attacks was given by a regional civilian defense commissioner in a platform speech at Manchester.

Attack German Planes

As he spoke anti-aircraft guns in East Anglia and the London suburbs, emphasizing the new peril, he said German planes flying a bold daylight reconnaissance to survey the damage done in overnight (Thurs-Fri) bomb and fire raids on eight towns in the munitions-making Midlands.

None appeared over London but shoppers took cover at the again-familiar sound of ack-ack. It is just over two years since the Nazi began mass daylight raids that devastated sections of England before they were called off because of plane losses which reached a peak of around 200 down on Sept. 15, 1940.

A communique said last night's attacks were not heavy, but the roaring of motors, bursting bombs, gunfire and siren screams allowed little rest for the Britons working long hours in munitions in the Midlands and gave Londoners a restless night.

London had two early morning alerts.

Jap Cruiser Hit By Allied Bomb

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Saturday, Aug. 1 (AP)—An allied air unit attacked and "probably hit" a Japanese cruiser south of Ambon island, in the Dutch East Indies, while other bombers were carrying out devastating raids on Japanese bases at Gona mission, northeast New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Petrillo Refuses To Rescind Ban On Canned Music for "Juke Boxes"

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL), refused tonight to rescind his ban on the manufacture of all "canned music" which is effective at midnight.

Petrillo made his announcement in a letter to Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, who had appealed to Petrillo to withdraw the edict as a "patriotic duty."

The Petrillo order prohibits the union's 138,000 members from making records for radio and other public use, which the AFL leader said comprised ninety-five per cent of the music heard in the United States and Canada.

Blames Government
In releasing the letter, Petrillo declared that "if the government hadn't stepped into this thing in the beginning, the recording companies would be here already to talk it over. That's the only thing that's holding them back."

He declared in the letter to Davis: "I can not grant your request

Pontiac Strikes Called Off after Closing of Plants

Grocery Clerks Will Arbitrate and So Will Auto Workers

PONTIAC, Mich., July 31 (AP)—A dispute over CIO and AFL efforts to organize grocery clerks, which caused a shutdown of two war production units here today, ended late this afternoon with an agreement to arbitrate.

Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan announced the agreement at Detroit, after most of the food stores in this industrial center had closed from lack of supplies or because of picket activity.

The governor said AFL and CIO unions had agreed to withdraw all pickets and permit deliveries of foodstuffs, to cease all interference with war production, and to accept the decision of an arbitrator to be named by the War Labor Board.

At Washington, the board announced it had appointed David A. Wolf, a Detroit attorney, as arbitrator.

Federal Action Requested
Before Van Wagoner's announcement, the dispute had brought a threat to tie up truck transportation throughout Michigan, and an appeal by C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corp., for federal action.

The war plants closed were those of GM's Pontiac Motor division and of the Baldwin Rubber Company. Thousands of workers were affected.

The threat of a general state-wide walkout of truckers was made by Daniel F. Keating, business agent of the AFL teamsters' union here.

Wilson addressed his appeals to Secretary Knox of the navy and to Donald Nelson of the War Production Board. In a separate telegram to Dean Wayne L. Morse of the War Labor Board, Wilson said:

"To shut down war production over a dispute involving grocery clerks none of which work in any of our plants is more than a national disgrace. I think I can agree with you in these times it approaches treason."

Engage in Stone Battle
CIO pickets and AFL men unloading a meat truck at a north side chain store engaged in a brief fight this afternoon, with some stones being thrown, but no one seriously hurt.

American General Favored by Many for Important Position

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—Appointment of a United States general as commander-in-chief of an Allied invasion force in Europe would be entirely acceptable in Britain, it was said tonight by informed British sources who could not be quoted directly.

The name of General George C. Marshall, U.S.A. chief of staff, has been prominent in discussions of the subject both in the newspapers and in informed circles.

The situation as depicted by the British is this:

The principle of American leadership of this vital operation facing the United Nations is believed to be acceptable to the British people.

If President Roosevelt should suggest General Marshall or any other ranking American soldier as commander-in-chief, the appointment would be accepted immediately by the British government and fighting services, according to informed British sources.

Britain for Chief of Staff

A British general would be a welcome and obvious choice as chief of staff to the American commander, according to well-informed sources in touch with British official views and with the sentiments of the people.

British realize the stupendous scale of invasion operations and the role that American ships, men, tanks and guns must play in an invasion and drive to final victory. The British also remember the readiness of American troops to place themselves under Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's orders when he was named supreme commander in the Pacific.

American officers generally and Marshall in particular have impressed British soldiers and statesmen by their familiarity with the type of operations now contemplated.

British Like Marshall

Marshall's prestige is extremely high among British staff officers, who view him as one of the few soldiers on the allied side who not only planned a successful operation in the World war but who has had experience in equipping, training and transporting a large number of troops.

As chief of operations of the American first army in 1918, Marshall had a big part in planning the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, like Marshall, enjoys high prestige among British soldiers, civilians and officials. It is the view of well-informed sources, however, that MacArthur is vitally needed by both nations in his present position, not only to organize and lead the final onslaught against Japan in the Pacific but for the preliminary operations which must precede any major offensive.

Ex-Congressman Is Charged with Assaulting Cop

Ambrose J. Kennedy Indicted by Baltimore Grand Jury

BALTIMORE, July 31 (AP)—The Baltimore grand jury today presented former United States congressman and present Congressional candidate Ambrose J. Kennedy on two charges of assaulting and interfering with a police officer "in the lawful discharge of his duty."

Bail was set at $500 for each charge.

The first presentment charged Kennedy with "making an assault in and upon one Alexander Emerson who was then and there a police officer of the city of Baltimore, in the due execution of his office as such police officer."

The second accused him of interfering with and obstructing Lt. Emerson "in the lawful discharge of his duty, with intent then and there to interfere with and obstruct said officer, Alexander Emerson, when he was affecting the arrest of one James Heaps."

This was the second time the jury considered the question of Kennedy's encounter with the police during a raid July 12, on James Heaps' tavern, a few blocks from Mr. Kennedy's home in Baltimore.

Before, on advice of State Attorney J. Bernard Wells, the grand jury declined to consider police requests for action on a disorderly conduct charge against Kennedy which had been previously dismissed by Magistrate Henry B. Mann.

The jury, however, presented Heaps who also had been dismissed by the magistrate on a charge of assaulting an officer.

Kennedy has filed as a candidate for representative to Congress from the Fourth district, subject to the Democratic primaries, Sept. 8.

Decision To Aid Russia Believed Made by Allies

London Sees Stronger Indications of a Second Front

By ROBERT BUNELLE

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—Mounting British and American offensive preparations coupled with continuing strategy conferences caused observers to believe tonight that a decision has been reached to aid the impatient Russian allies with as quick and positive action in Western Europe as their combined resources will permit.

There were signs that the Russians had laid the cards on the table and told their allies that the time for a diversion in the west is here.

The difficulty of delivering war supplies to the Soviet over the bomb-splashed northern sea to Murmansk, and the danger that the Red army may be stripped of its offensive power to aid a western drive of the Allies if action is delayed too long were seen as factors of urgency in the situation.

Predict Attack on Reds

Of great moment, too, was the assertion of British military sources today that Japan has concentrated nearly 400,000 troops on the 1,000-mile Soviet frontier from Lake Baikal eastward and "there is little doubt they are planning to attack" from Manchukuo. This source said that August and September are the best months for a military campaign in that area.

Some observers believed that the need for a diversion and a solution of the Murmansk supply problem might point to one answer—seizure of Allied air bases in Scandinavia to provide air protection for Arctic convoys.

And many believed that Washington and London had been given to understand that if means are found to deliver the guns, tanks and planes the Red army needs, the Russians would be happy with a continuance of 1,000 bomber raids on Germany and big-scale Commando sorties until a full-dress offensive can be mounted in Western Europe even if that is after New Year's day.

Germans Boasting

Meanwhile in efforts to discourage the Allies and buck up themselves, German propaganda agencies pounded on the theme of Germany's western coastal defenses, which were described as "stronger than the Maginot line."

A foreign source here with confidential pipelines of information said the Germans also were making peace feelers both to Britain and the United States and to Russia with the object of splitting the allies.

This source, who would not permit use of his name, said Germany was seeking to convince London and Washington they should leave Russia to her fate and hinting at German uneasiness over the Japanese peril to the white race, while suggesting to Russia that she quit the fight and align herself with Hitler's "new Europe."

Practice for Invasion

The attention Germany was giving to the situation was indicated by a Reuters report, said to have originated in Vichy, that the occupation forces had held a practice "invasion alarm" at a German seaport on the English channel last night with sea, land and air forces taking part.

In Vichy, the cabinet of pro-Nazi Pierre Laval banned all demonstrations endangering "public order" and invoking the death penalty for possession of firearms or explosives at a time when the French press was devoting space to possible American and British troop landings.

Australian Front Shows Signs of Becoming Active

Japanese Appear To Be Preparing To Take Initiative

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, July 31 (AP)—The Australian front, quiescent for nearly three months since the Coral Sea battle, is becoming active again with the Japanese showing signs of taking the initiative.

Although it is from the allied side that the cries for an offensive have been most urgent, it is the Japanese who show indications of having recouped some of their air losses and who are now exerting the pressure that has resulted in the first real land skirmishing since the Pacific war moved in to the Australian area.

Since landing July 22 in the Buna-Gona area of northeast New Guinea, Japanese jungle patrols in the last ten days have pushed fifty-five miles through the low grasslands and foothills of the towering Owen Stanley range, a penetration that has cut half the distance between their new bases and Port Moresby.

Aimed at Port Moresby

Allied strategists profess still to be undecided whether this is a real threat to Port Moresby, the rapidly developed air base which has permitted American and Australian airmen to dominate Torres Strait and the approaches to Australia and to hammer relentlessly the Japanese air concentrations and convoys at Lae, Salamau and Rabaul.

But there is the possibility that the Japanese army has taken over the task of reducing Port Moresby—after the failure of the navy in the Coral Sea battle early in May to take or by-pass it—and that the Japanese are attempting to adapt to the highland jungles of New Guinea the methods of warfare that worked so well in Malaya and Burma.

Australia Chagrined

Declaring that it was "galling that the enemy has stolen a march on us in Papua x x x when it seemed reasonable to hope that a forward move in New Guinea might not be beyond our resources" the Sydney Morning Herald said the threat to Port Moresby was plain. The Herald said the Japanese move was regarded in Washington as "a feint to mask Japan's intentions toward Siberia" but "the possibility that view may be seriously wrong cannot be excluded from Australian calculations."

In New Guinea, however, the Japanese are up against keen-eyed Australian bushwhackers, prospectors, patrol officers and foresters, long familiar with the conditions, if not the terrain, of the country, who travel almost naked and carry few if any supplies.

General MacArthur's communique last Wednesday said these Australian patrols had driven back Japanese outposts at Kokoda, but a subsequent report described Kokoda itself as a no-man's land.

Face Rough Going

Kokoda is on the north side of the mountains, and from there on to Port Moresby the Japanese would encounter great difficulties along the tortuous trail over 8,000-foot high mountains. They may be waiting for reinforcements.

First estimates of the force landed at Gona and Buna was not over 2,500 men, too small a force to undertake a land expedition against the Allied base. But it may soon be reinforced and the Japanese apparently already have based fighting planes there to drive off Allied bombers.

In the air, meanwhile, the Japanese have shown signs of revived strength. They directed a heavy blow with twenty-seven big bombers and twenty-two fighters at Darwin (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

10,000 Japanese On Aleutians, but None on Pribilofs

Navy Spokesman Denies Enemy Is Near Coast of Alaska

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A navy spokesman said today there were about 10,000 Japanese in the western Aleutians but that aerial reconnaissance had failed to show any Japs in the Pribilofs.

The spokesman's remarks were made in response to inquiries prompted by reports that the enemy might have occupied the Pribilofs, about 250 miles northwest of Dutch Harbor.

"We are not in a position to say that the Japanese aren't there," the spokesman said, "but have no evidence that they are."

Asked whether the navy had investigated directly, this official, who declined to be quoted by name, said "yes, we have, by aerial reconnaissance, but we have seen no Japs."

The number of Japanese in the Aleutians was given in this form in response to another question: "We believe not more than 10,000, probably about one half ashore and one half afloat."

The islands actually occupied by enemy forces were said to be still only Attu, Kiska, and Agattu.

Gin and Whisky Price Increases After August 5

Boost Authorized by OPA Will Depend Partly Upon New Taxes

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—An increase of "at least" fourteen cents a quart in the retail price of domestic gin, and varying increases in prices of domestic whisky, cordials and liqueurs were authorized today by the Office of Price Administration to compensate producers and distributors for added costs resulting from conversion of distilleries to war work.

Effective August 5
The order becomes effective August 5. OPA said the advance in whisky prices would depend upon the type of product, but that blends using natural spirits would reflect increased cost of more expensive high proof alcohol. Straight whisky prices would not increase, officials said, except to reflect any increase in taxes.

OPA emphasized that it was impossible to determine the exact amount of the price rise on distilled spirits "because of the uncertainty of proposed tax increases."

"In any event, the advances will be limited to actual increases in specific ingredient costs arising through issuance of WPB orders and additional taxes which have (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Engineers Offer Aerial Carrier For Army Planes

Propose Revolutionary Type of Craft To Speed War Cargoes

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Aircraft engineers disclosed before a Senate Military subcommittee today that they had designed a revolutionary type of flying cargo plane which would be lifted and propelled by a unique combination of engines, helium gas and air tunnels.

The plane could be used, they said, as a sky-roaming carrier of a dozen speedy fighting airplanes.

The engineers were Horace Chapman and Eric Langlands of the Aerodynamics Research Corporation.

A description of the craft was given the same Senate group which heard Henry J. Kaiser, Oregon shipbuilder, offer to build giant cargo planes for transporting military equipment and supplies to the fighting fronts.

Not Asking for Money
Young told Chairman Lee (D-Okla.) of the subcommittee that his corporation was seeking government encouragement, although no financial aid, to build a flying model.

The single-wing combination cargo-fighter carrier craft would have a flying deck 200 by 180 feet, from which 12 fighter planes could take off. It could carry enough helium gas to lift 36 tons and with its engines turning the propellers could lift 70 tons, Young said.

"If the plane did not carry such a heavy payload, it would not need helium to lift it, but it would use the gas to utilize the craft as a plane carrier," he explained.

Young said the peculiar flying (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Reinforced Russ Troops Continue Terrific Battle

Kill 1,000 Germans and Capture Many Tanks and Guns

But Invaders Continue To Advance South of Rostov

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (Saturday) Aug. 1 (AP)—The Red army has retreated deeper into the western Caucasus below Bataisk, but reinforced Soviet legions were reported early today to have stalled a big Nazi drive in the Kletsckaya area some eighty miles northwest of Stalingrad, where the Russians rushed trainloads of reserves to the front.

In the third critical area of the south, a midnight communique said one Russian unit defending the Don river barrier in the Tsimliansk sector, 120 miles upstream from Rostov, had killed more than 1,000 Germans who had effected a crossing of that barrier.

The communique said of the new retreat south and southeast of Bataisk:

"After bloody battles our units fell back to new positions. The Germans lost thirteen tanks, eighteen guns and more than 600 men killed in these battles."

In the Kletsckaya battle, the Russians reported, the Red army was hurling captured German tanks immediately into the battle against the Nazis.

It was in the Kletsckaya area that press dispatches said the Russian reserves had arrived in armored trains to stem the Nazi drive in the Don river elbow.

German Losses Heavy

"In the area of Tsimliansk stubborn fighting went on against enemy groups which had crossed to the southern bank of the Don in a sector held by one of our units," the communique continued.

Two High Army Officers Killed

NEWARK, N. J., July 31 (AP)—An army basic training plane spitting blue flames roared into the earth here tonight, killing a lieutenant colonel and a major.

The force of the crash was so great the major's body was buried fifteen feet underground and was not found until nearly two hours later.

Major Oliver Holden of the first aid force public relations office at Mitchell Field, N. Y., said the victims were Lieut. Col. George R. Smith, autogiro and meteorology expert, and Major J. J. Simondal, who was not known at Mitchell Field.

The plane flying from Bolling Field, outside of Washington, to Mitchell Field, had been plowing through a storm.

MacArthur, Roosevelt and Churchill Are Cousins, Conklin Mann Asserts

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—It's one big family at the helm of the United Nations, with General MacArthur cousin to both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Conklin Mann, editor of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, who recently discovered that the prime minister and the President are sixth cousins once removed, announced today that MacArthur bears the same relationship to the president, while he is an eighth cousin to the prime minister.

Because of double cousins — an unusual genealogical fact — the president and the general are "even closer than the designation sixth cousins once removed indicates," Mann says in the July issue of the Society's record.

Mann defines double cousins as those who "except for their parents, have identical ancestry."

Kinship between the president and the general began in the town of Dartmouth Bristol county, Mass., in the early 1700s, says Mann. A brother and a sister of one family married a brother and a sister of another. They were the Rev. Samuel Hunt who married Hannah Pope, and Capt. Lemuel Pope who married Elizabeth Hunt.

Eight generations later General MacArthur began fighting the Japanese in the Pacific. And seven generations later—though at the same time as MacArthur—President Roosevelt rolled up his sleeves and started in on Hitler.

In the case of Prime Minister Churchill and eighth cousin General MacArthur, the stellar role was played by Joseph and Elizabeth Farnsworth. The scene was Dorchester, Mass., the time 1638 or 1639.

From these descends a neat serial of brackets — with the town of Dartmouth apparently coming in for its share of the honor somewhere along the line—and at the bottom of the page, presto! Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, eighth cousins.

To the genealogical naïve it looks as if the president were cypriote of one generation. But there's a remarkable family likeness when it comes to fighting a war.

Congressmen And the War

SINCE Congress is in recess and its members are flocking back to their home bailiwicks to look after their political fences despite the grave situation in the fight against inflation which is imperatively demanding attention, along with other important matters, they would do well, in the opinion of the New York Herald Tribune, to get in touch with their constituents in regard to the resentment many of the members are reported to have entertained while in Washington about the general criticism heaped upon them of late.

When the congressman do so, the Herald Tribune says, "they will discover that criticism is not of Congress as such and of members of Congress in general, but of those members of both parties who have continued to act and talk since Pearl Harbor as if the nation were still at peace."

"Unfortunately," the Herald Tribune continues, "too many members of both houses have made it plain that they are interested first and foremost in their own re-election. It is this spirit which has caused nationwide resentment. Particular votes, such as those in support of the farm blue grabs, or of the Florida barge canal, or of pensions for congressmen, have been merely the symptoms of the disease."

It is believed that the members will find criticism of them centering about their failure to apply to each proposal for legislation the simple test as to whether it will speed up the nation's war effort. Criticism for apparent subservience to the executive branch will not apply with respect to prosecution of the war, the Herald Tribune says, because when the nation is at war there must be unity of command, which can be achieved only under executive direction. Here, it is pointed out, congressmen must study each proposal carefully and strengthen it whenever possible.

"Necessarily, this means accepting measures which those in charge of the nation's war effort believe advisable," the Herald Tribune notes, adding the caution that, "equally necessary it presumes a readiness to refrain from advocating or supporting measures advanced for purely political or selfish reasons. It also imposes on Congress the duty of keeping an intelligent check on what may be extravagant or unwise in the general conduct of the war, but its criticism must be positive."

"This is why the records with respect to the war of all congressmen and senators seeking re-election will be closely scrutinized. Those who put narrow interests first will find strong opposition at home. The nation has a common ideal these days—to see the war effort pushed with the utmost vigor and efficiency. When the people see the president taking time off to interfere in local political disputes they resent it. When they see other high-ranking officials put politics ahead of their war jobs they resent it. When they see members of Congress occupied with the pursuit or protection of special privileges for themselves or groups of voters they resent it. Those candidates for re-election who fail to understand this show plainly that they are not fit to serve in Congress. Those who put petty politics behind them need have no fear that the critical attitude toward Congress in general will hurt them individually."

The case is here clearly stated. The test will be applied to the derelicts and in those instances wherein it seems unlikely that the representatives or senators will refrain from putting narrow and selfish interests first as they have been doing, the obvious remedy should be applied. That is the election of others in their stead.

Women Can Now Join the Navy

WOMEN with the patriotic urge to join the navy may now do so, to a limited extent, which again means first come first served. President Roosevelt has signed into law a bill passed by Congress creating a feminine naval auxiliary of about 11,000 members.

The Navy department in laying plans to enlist the sailorettes announced that the corps would be made up of 1,000 commissioned officers and 10,000 enlisted women. The members of the new corps, which is a counterpart of the Waackies—the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps—cannot serve outside the continental United States, nor can they serve aboard vessels or combat aircraft. This was stipulated in the bill passed by Congress as the outfit is designed ultimately to release for sea duty thousands of officers and enlisted men now holding desk jobs.

The duties of the sailorettes will range from decoding secret messages to serving as secretaries for high ranking officers. They will receive the same pay, rank for rank, as the boys with the bell-bottomed trousers, but their officers will have authority over the auxiliary members only.

Of course the new corps members will have a nickname, and there seems to be little doubt as to what it will be—it will be "WAVES." This became apparent with the Navy department's announcement of procedure to be followed in setting up the reserve. The organization was officially mentioned as "Women Appointed for Volunteer Emergency Service."

That will be all right as indicating the navy service even if the women don't have the chance of riding the waves, although they will probably have the privilege of waving their hair, as usual.

Second Front Handicaps

DEMAND for the launching of a second front in western Europe must be tempered with two very important considerations.

One of these is the desperate need of ships which are being sunk by the Nazi U-boats faster than the Allies can build them. We have just had the distressing report that the number of Allied and neutral ships thus destroyed has reached 400, exclusive of twenty-three reported sunk in the Caribbean.

The other is the fact that American troops are scattered over thirty-one different fronts in all parts of the world. Ships, of course, are necessary to supply them, and as long as they are so engaged it would be difficult to send heavy shipping across the North Atlantic for a major front in view of the deadly submarine menace.

A major front without American help would likely be a case of too little too soon. In the other World war, we had but one front—in France—in place of thirty-one at present.

Thus it appears that the second front question is a delicate problem and one that must, in view of the scattered forces, depend upon precise military and naval knowledge and its use by military and naval brains.

Is Goebbels Whistling Past the Graveyard?

WHAT is really behind all of the "Second Front" parading by the Nazis in Paris? According to dispatches from Switzerland the Germans have sent battle-trained and newly rearmored SS (Elite guard) troops wheeling down the Champs Elysees en route to the "invasion coast," and to this widely-advertised gesture, Paul Goebbels, propaganda minister, has declared that the opening of an Allied second front would be an "act of madness," which he welcomed with the hope that Americans would participate.

From Eric Hawkins, of the London bureau of the New York Herald Tribune, comes an explanation of all this. He says that Hitler is scared over the prospects of an Allied invasion of the continent and that he is trying to bluff the Allies into believing that he has far more powerful military forces and defenses along the North sea and the English coast channel, and deep into the western occupied countries than is actually the case.

Recalling the repeated blastings of that territory by the RAF, which have been long continued and enormous, there seems to be good basis for what Hawkins thus reports.

One of the mysteries of the war—to headline writers—is how fighting happened to center on a river with only three letters in it.

Cannibals of a Pacific island are rapidly becoming civilized, we read. In direct contrast to their neighbors, the Japs.

Who's the Boss?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I heard a husky husband boasting: "I'll tell you ONE thing—I'm the boss in my house. Somebody has to be the head of the house and I'm IT! What I say goes! I'm the Boss!"

Maybe so. Maybe so. I don't know that family. I don't know the wife. I don't even know the stout fellow who was telling the world he was the boss. I'm not arguing—I'm just remembering, that's all.

I'm remembering the time I went to a zoo and stood in front of the lion cage, watching a family of lions. One was a magnificent male, proud, strong and arrogantly calm. Another was a half-grown cub, smaller but beautiful, promising great strength when he was mature. The third was a female, a long-sine creature who lay in a corner, calmly looking us over. She looked at us, we looked at the lions. . . . And as we looked, the male rose to his feet and stretched every muscle in his mighty structure and yawned a red, tremendous yawn and strode across the cage and through a little door into a dark sleeping-chamber. He didn't even say goodbye, he merely went, and his family didn't seem to mind his going.

And then, through that dark door, thunder broke. It rushed forth like mad, with thundering hooves. It clattered the sky and echoed from the hills. It flamed and demanded. It said so plainly that even a human being could understand it. "Come here!" The magnificent male was ordering his wife to obey him.

Did she move? Did she ripple a muscle? Was she upset? Not a bit. She lay there as calmly as the Sphinx of Egypt. . . . He roared again. He made the roof tremble. There was lightning in his rage, but she stayed where she was. . . . Again he made the heavens tremble in the storm of his commands. . . . She did not move. . . . And again and again he showed us who was Boss of the Family.

But this time I thought I heard a pleading, a faint tremble in his gigantic rage. And then the lady rose to her feet. Without haste, with slow and measured pace, she strode across the lion cage. And as she entered the dark door she asked, I suppose, "What is it, Dear?"—and the roaring ceased. . . . The Boss of the House had proved once more that he was the master, that his wife always jumped to obey when he commanded. . . . But the crowd laughed at that domestic scene. The men and women out there knew who was boss—and the men looked sheepish and the women looked quietly proud. They'd all heard that pleading in the lion's roar.

So you can think of that, too, the next time you hear a He-Man boasting that he's in command. . . . I guess WE know who's Boss!

Pay Cuts Coming With Pay Boosts Are Held Unjust

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 31—Some one in the United States Senate can earn enduring fame as an exponent of truth in legislation by offering a simple amendment to eliminate one word wherever it appears in the tax bill recently passed by the House of Representatives. The word is "excess" and it is used many times in the phrase "excess profits."

As a matter of fact there are no such things as excess profits viewed from any standpoint today. The original concept was that over and above normal profits there might be some companies which would earn profits in excess of normal due to war contracts.

The evidence, however, shows that not only have such excess profits failed to materialize this year but even normal profits have been substantially reduced. Thus the statistical bureau of the National City Bank of New York, which is famed for its accurate reference material on economic affairs, has just issued a statement to the effect that the half-year reports of 180 manufacturing companies show, in the majority of cases, a substantial decline in net income after taxes as compared with last year.

Representative Group

"This group of companies," says the National City statement, "representative for the most part of the larger manufacturing organizations, and employing an aggregate capital and surplus of approximately $8,965 millions at the beginning of this year, had net income in the first half of 1942 of $361 millions after taxes which was thirty-seven per cent below the earnings in the first half of 1941. . . ."

"The available quarterly figures indicate that net income after taxes in the first quarter of 1942 was thirty-two per cent below that of last year while the second quarter of 1942 was forty-two per cent below last year."

The decline, of course, is caused by the necessity of setting aside taxes to pay according to the rates in the bill just passed by the House, which the administration is asking the Senate to revise still further so that the ultimate decline for the year may be as much as fifty per cent below last year.

It is interesting to note that federal taxes is absorbing seventy-one cents out of every dollar of net income before taxes this year as compared with fifty-two cents out of every dollar of net income in 1941 and twenty-seven cents in 1940.

Far Ahead of Last War

"The portion of industrial corporation income taken by federal taxes," says the National City letter, "is now far above that ever reached in the past. During the last war federal taxes absorbed twenty-three per cent of the national income of all manufacturing operations in 1917, and forty-five per cent in 1918 and twenty-six per cent in 1919."

Other factors, of course, besides taxes are causing the drop in net income, such as the narrowing of profit margins due to price ceiling limitations, on the one hand, and rising labor costs on the other. Rationing and restrictions on civilian output have played a vital part, too.

But, on the whole, it is disconcerting to read that the labor politicians are still deceiving their members and trying to deceive the public generally by arguing that the tax bills are not high enough and that if they were made higher the expenses of the war could be met without either a sales tax or further taxation of the persons in the moderate or lower income groups.

Many Affected

The corporation returns mean, moreover, that dividends will be cut to hundreds of thousands of

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker

Capt. Rickenbacker, World War ace, is shown telling members of the Senate Military Affairs subcommittee in Washington that at least twenty percent of the nation's aircraft production should be cargo planes. He gave little encouragement to proposals for producing 70-ton flying boats and flatly opposed converting shipyards into flying boat factories. This is a photograph.

THE STATESMEN OF LILLIPUT

Action in the Battle against Inflation Is Imperative Now, Mark Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

persons who have invested in American industries. In the face of these facts, well known to the Treasury and informed persons, the War Labor Board has the temerity to insist that wages must be "stabilized" upward so as to compensate for increases in the cost of living as compared with normal, peacetime standards.

At a time when hourly earnings and weekly earnings are the highest in industrial history, a pay increase is ordered by the administration for a minority of its citizens while the vast majority suffer either a payroll cut in the form of declining dividend or interest rates or a cut in real wages due to increases in the cost of living for which the government does not compensate them.

This unequal treatment of the citizens is a flagrant example of mismanagement by the administration in power of the economic affairs of the nation, and it is one of the reasons why political profiteering is being so widely denounced as a factor disturbing to national unity.

Should Get Them All

From the Altoona, Pa., Tribune

It is good to see the speed with which the house has passed legislation designed to outlaw commission fees on naval war contracts.

Recent testimony in Washington before the house naval affairs committee presented by various "sales engineers" . . . smooth salesmen who know their way around and can talk themselves into political connections, various official shortcuts mixed with an expensive and expansive good fellowship . . . has revealed a disgraceful situation.

The testimony shows that at least two million dollars was received by these commission agents on government naval contracts merely for their "services" in obtaining the contract for certain firms. These huge commissions undoubtedly bounce right back on the public. And they are obtained for a "service" that should be handled as a routine business by the government and the eligible firms with which it can deal.

Congress for once has acted with admirable speed in its bill to ban such practices, regarding naval contracts. But, the procedure must be widened to take in all government business, first of all, army contracts. The present legislation is applicable only to naval business.

Mail It So It Gets There

From the Pittsburgh Press

Mail, save only perhaps chow and sleep, is the most popular factor in the life of a man in the military services.

Letters from home from relatives, friends and sweethearts, make an important contribution to the welfare of a soldier, sailor or marine.

But a letter with the wrong address is no better than no letter at all.

The War department says many letters, particularly those sent to troops overseas, have been returned because of inadequate or incorrect addresses.

The address should contain the

The present status of official action to check inflation is one of preparing for action. President Roosevelt has turned the matter over to one of his personal trouble-shooters. The trouble-shooter's function is to assemble the facts, condense them and then submit them to the president. This is the limit of the function of most of the aides whom the president uses—only in rare cases does he confer authority to act.

After Mr. Roosevelt's trouble-shooter reports about inflation, presumably action will follow—it is imperative that something be done. The action cannot be by Congress. That body is in a kind of informal recess, with most of the members at home looking after their campaigns. Before they went, they received assurances, transmitted to their leaders, that the president had nothing pressing for them to do; that if anything should arise, he would call them back. This means that whatever step is taken about inflation must be taken by the president.

The facts the president must pass upon are not facts of inflation—these are all too plain. They are the facts about conditions which have arisen within the administration, between himself and farm leaders in Congress, and between himself and labor leaders. Within this group of conditions, the one that is acute at this stage has to do with the labor leaders.

The present stage began April 27 and 28. On those days the president made a dramatic attack on inflation and the rising cost of living, by means of an announced program of seven points. On the first day, April 27, he sent a message to Congress, in which, in the points dealing with labor, he said:

"Wages in general can and should be kept at existing levels."

The following day, with the forceful effect of reiteration, Mr. Roosevelt made a radio address to the country. In this he repeated, almost word for word, most of what he had said to Congress. His point about labor was made even more specific, speaking of labor as if he were addressing them personally:

"Do you work for wages? You will have to forego higher wages for your particular job for the duration of the war."

At that time there were pending many demands by labor leaders for increased wage rates. They included demands in most of the grade, first name, middle initial and surname, plus the Army serial number if known. It should include the letter or number of the company or organization to which the soldier, sailor, or marine belongs. It should carry the regiment or battalion designation, if any. It should include the Army postoffice number, or appropriate postmaster if going overseas.

This may seem like a lot of trouble. But mail is valued so highly by military men abroad that it's worth a little extra trouble. Isn't it?

It is with these and other matters that the president must now deal in what must amount to a fresh start in the battle against inflation.

Other Demands Follow

Actually, the War Labor Board granted these demands, and also a part of the demand for higher wages—forty-four cents a day compared with the demand for $1.

What had been expected followed. There were immediate demands for corresponding wage increases throughout many fields of industry. Farm leaders in Congress felt justified in their attitude. Agencies of government charged with the function of preventing inflation complained of the War Labor Board's action.

It is with these and other matters that the president must now deal in what must amount to a fresh start in the battle against inflation.

Russian Losses Appear Too Big For Come-on Game

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 31—A weekly magazine sold faster than sugar here when it came out with a story predicting Russia will defeat Hitler in 1942.

The idea of the magazine article was that the Russians have secret armies of several hundred divisions, and one of four million men is supposed to be about ready.

The author, Pierre Van Paassen, an eminent analyst of foreign affairs, also claimed the Russians have secretly built most of their industry safely back of the Urals, and therefore are in good shape.

There is no one here who does not hope Mr. Van Paassen is correct, but more competent authorities are encountering difficulty in accepting his suggestion that the Russian retreat this time is a come-on game.

The Don river basin, which has fallen into Nazi hands contains eighty per cent of the coal ordinarily used by the Russians in peacetime. Seventy-five per cent of the pig iron, sixty per cent of the iron ore, eighty-five per cent of the sugar and ninety-five per cent of manganese. Mines and sugar fields cannot be moved.

Caucasus Chief Oil Source

In peacetime, the Reds also drew eighty-five per cent of their oil from the Caucasus, which is now just beyond Hitler's reaching fingers. They produced 593,000 barrels of oil a day of which 400,000 came from the Caucasus.

They are now supposed to have safely in storage 1,000,000 barrels which would be 200 days of a peacetime supply. This could be made to last somewhat longer now with supplies from newly-developed Ural wells.

It is no doubt true they have 4,000,000 fresh troops or more in reserve, but the equipment of these is questionable. It is no secret that they are long on manpower and short on material.

Anyone who wants to think they are fooling, thus will have difficulty convincing the proper authorities here who assume a much graver attitude toward the Russian situation.

Germans Need Oil

A late check on German oil, incidentally places their war use in active operations at 400,000 barrels a day. They are getting about 100,000 from Rumania, 43,000 from Poland, Albania and Germany.

But their synthetic production in addition to these supplies, still leaves them about fifty per cent short. They are drawing on their reserves, therefore, to the extent of about 200,000 barrels a day, which shows how badly they need the Caucasus fields.

Flat Rejection

The idea of Mr. Roosevelt's appointing Chief Justice Stone to head a rubber survey did out of the news fast, far a very good reason, Justice Stone flatly rejected the president's suggestion.

He is personally opposed to mixing court and executive matters, even has some private feelings about other justices making public speeches. His declination was smoothed over by both his office and the White House, suggesting he had not been asked.

Odds Favor Farley Now

Most politicians think Jim Farley will defeat Mr. Roosevelt in the choice of a Democratic gubernatorial candidate at the coming New York state convention. As Mayor LaGuardia has suggested, Farley is perhaps the best delegate picker in the world today and he started early.

In the New York delegation in Congress, however, there is a belief that Mr. Roosevelt will throw in federal pressure (promises of jobs and federal appropriations) to make enough delegates change their minds.

If he goes to work actively on this basis, they say Farley will find himself facing too much power. Until such pressure begins to appear, the odds favor Farley.

At any rate, everyone now knows Messrs. Farley and Roosevelt will irretrievably be broken, and that Mr. Farley will oppose a fourth term more actively and vociferously than he opposed the third.

Shakeup Seen

Calls rising from administration friends in Congress seem to signify they are paving the way for Mr. Roosevelt to shake up the army and navy.

First, Lyndon Johnson, of Texas, came back from the Far East and started talking about "bras hats" for the first time in his life. Then Oklahoma's Josh Leventer after both the army and navy and Representative Coffey, of Washington, joined what seemed to be a chorus.

Girl Scout Camp Will Open Aug. 7 At Pavia, Pa.

Fifty-six Cumberland Girls Are among Seventy-six Registered

Girl Scout camp opens at Pavia, Pa., August 7, with fifty-six local girls among the seventy-six registered. Miss Florence Ann Schlott, executive secretary, announced last evening. There are five registered from Frostburg, four from Luke, and several from Johnstown, Pa., Lonaconing, Somerset, Westernport, Barton, Westminster and Charlestown, W. Va.

The camp session is divided into two periods, August 7 to 14 and August 14 to 21. Seventy-six girls have registered for the first week and thirty-nine for the second, thirty-eight of the seventy-six will be two-week campers. The camp capacity is 120 and registrations will be taken for either week up to the day each period opens. Camp is open to non-scouts as well as Girl Scouts. Transportation is provided and camp buses will leave the little house, 72 Greene street, at 12:30 p. m. on August 7 and 14.

Must Limit Baggage

Miss Schlott requested all campers to report at the little house by 11 o'clock in order to have time to pay the fee and deposit their store money. If the girls prefer, however, they may make the deposit any time before camp date.

All campers are asked to limit their baggage to one suitcase and one blanket roll, which should be tied in Girl Scout fashion to conserve space.

Girls registered in the senior unit, in addition to the regular unit activities, will be given an opportunity to get some practical experience in working and playing with younger children. It will be possible for them to obtain experience in teaching songs, games and other activities to the age group in which they are most interested. This training will prepare them for immediate jobs in the various local housing centers and it also is a step toward camp counselor training for the future.

As usual the camp offers a varied program and each day presents activities, both of interest and fun. Among the courses offered are arts and crafts, making articles out of felt, wood, cork, or leather; there will be archery, swimming, lifesaving, badminton, baseball, tennis and ping-pong. There will also be short trail hikes, over-night trips to nearby shelters, parties and camp-fire programs.

Visitors day will be August 16 and a special program will be prepared and a cafeteria supper will be served. Reservations should be made at the Girl Scout little house no later than August 12.

Staff of Members

The camp staff members will go to camp August 5 for a two-days pre-camp training. It includes Miss Schlott, director; Mrs. Gordon Taylor, Frostburg; Miss Pauline Fisher, Cumberland; Miss Jane Goodwin, Bridgeport, W. Va.; and Miss Janella Anderson, Indiana, Pa., unit leaders. Miss Elsa Paul, Altoona, Pa., will be camp nurse; Miss Alberta Kunsman, Duncansville, Pa., dietitian; Mrs. Bess Bracken and Mrs. Gertrude Henry, Johnstown, Pa., cooks; Thomas Blank, Charles Snyder and John Carney, Cumberland handy-boys.

Miss Gretchen Reighard, city, water-front counselor; Miss Martha Foreman, Owings Mills, arts and crafts; Herbert Meyers, Johnstown, government co-ordinator; Miss Frances Carrigan, Cleveland, O., nature head; Miss Mary Patricia Brett, Miss Dorothy Reinhart, camp librarians. The regular unit counselors are Miss Marjory Hignam, Millington; Miss Allene Kniseley, Pleasantville, Pa.; Miss Ellen MacLaughlin, Columbus, S. C.; Miss Joanne Tittle, Harrisburg, Pa.; Miss Jacqueline Tompkins, Harrisburg, Pa.; Miss A. Beatrice Weider, Womelsdorf, Pa.; Miss Helen Roberts and Miss Harriett Walls, Sudlersville.

Jean Joyner Will Be Honored at Party

Mrs. Elhu Joyner, Larchmont, N. Y., will entertain with a garden party in honor of her daughter, Jean, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Millholland, 218 Washington street, in celebration of Jean's fourth birthday.

Nursery games will be played and the patriotic motif will be carried out in the red, white and blue decorations.

Other guests will be Rosemary Mullaney, Kathleen Mullaney, Ann Bishop, Betty Helmer and Warren White.

all of LaVale, are spending a week with Pvt. Warren Livengood, Camp Forrest, Tenn., who enlisted in the Army Air Corps, July 8.

Lt. and Mrs. Robert Eugene Corrigan and son, of Washington, D. C., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Corrigan, 521 Rose Hill avenue.

Miss Alberta Hawthorne, who has been a patient in Allegany hospital for a month, is recovering and able to receive visitors.

Homemakers Hear Discussions on Various Topics

County Is Divided into Nine Groups for Duration of the War

Mrs. W. L. Maddox appointed Mrs. John S. Cook chairman of the nominating committee for the Allegany County Council of Homemakers Clubs, at the meeting of the council here yesterday.

Other members of the committee will be Mrs. J. H. G. Miller, Mrs. Willis R. Hodges, Cumberland, Miss Ann Sloan and Mrs. Patrick Manley, Lonaconing. The vice-president and secretary will be elected at the October meeting.

In discussing the "Neighborhood Group" idea the county was divided into nine groups for the duration of the war and instead of holding the one Achievement day program for the entire county, it was decided to hold one in each of the group divisions, in order to reach more people and conserve on tires and gasoline. They will be held some time in November.

Mrs. Claude T. Jett was appointed chairman of the auditing committee, and will be assisted by Mrs. Harry Hyde and Mrs. Martin Gordon.

Mrs. Edward Lewis, Cresaptown, newly elected president of the Rural Women's Short Course, reporting on the meeting at College Park last month, announced that the site for the club house will be near the Anne Arundel building at College Park and it is hoped to lay the cornerstone next June.

Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Lonaconing, state treasurer, reported that over $2,000 has been collected for the club house. She urged that a specific time should be set for sending in the money, suggesting not later than June 1, of each year, and also asked that a member from each club be appointed to collect it.

Reports were also given by Mrs. W. O. Wolford and Mrs. Claude T. Jett.

The membership drive for October was discussed and Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Irene McDonald appointed co-chairmen for the county. Miss Maudie A. Bean, home demonstration agent, announced that the county with the largest percentage of new members would go to Baltimore December 2 to take charge of the Homemakers broadcast.

Mrs. Gordon Nesbitt and Mrs. C. F. Houck were appointed chairmen for the Homemakers food booth at the fair and each homemakers club was appointed a certain day to take charge of the booth.

Each club president was urged to have her program chairman include a period in each meeting for singing patriotic songs and hymns and hearing the story of each.

Thirty-five members attended the meeting.

Variety of New Books Available At the Library

'Song of Nature' Contains 223 Poems; Two Volumes on Alaska Added

Important new titles available at the Cumberland Free Public Library include a timely volume, "Strategic Materials and National Defense," by Dr. Harry N. Holmes, president of the American Chemical Society.

"In Quest of the Perfect Book," by William Dana Orcutt, is described by the author as 'reminders, recollections and reflections of a bookman.' This volume is the story of the historical development of the book, a story which Mr. Orcutt makes fascinating to any reader.

"In Quest of the Perfect Book" contains many unusual sidelights on authors, printers and collectors of books. There are eighty-five splendid illustrations.

223 Poems Listed

A delightful book for summer reading is John Burroughs' book "Song of Nature"—223 poems collected by America's beloved naturalist.

"Beware Familiar Spirits" by John Mulholland, describes the lives and experiences of many famous mediums in this country and in England. Mr. Mulholland explains the various methods used by spiritualists.

"He Opened the Door to Japan," by Carl Crow, is the life and amazing adventures of Townsend Harris, New York merchant and first United States Consul General to Japan.

The 1941 edition of the New York Times Index is now available in the library's reference department. This key to the world's news gives dates for every important occurrence in 1941 and brief information on all matters of great significance.

Two Books on Alaska

Other worthwhile titles include: "Birds in the Garden and How to Attract Them," by Margaret McKenny; "Alaska, Its History, Resources, Geography and Government," by Mariette Shaw Pilgrim; "The Story of Alaska," by C. L. Andrews; "The Romance of the Patch Work Quilt in America," by Carrie A. Hall and Rose G. Kretzinger; "The Colonial and Federal House"—how to build an authentic Colonial house, by Rexford Newcomb.

Ceremony Will Be Performed This Evening in LaGrange, Ill.

A marriage of interest to many Cumberlanders will be performed at 5 o'clock this evening when Miss Virginia Branum, daughter of Miss and Mrs. A. M. Branum, 337 South Park road, LaGrange, Ill., becomes the bride of Ensign James A. Cobey, son of Mrs. James C. Cobey, 60 West Main street, Frostburg, and the late Dr. Cobey.

The ceremony will be performed in the home of her parents with members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends attending.

Mr. Cobey is a graduate of Princeton university, Princeton, N. J., Yale Law school, New Haven, Conn., and the Great Lakes Training School where he received his commission as an ensign.

A dinner-dance was held last evening in the rainbow room of the Palmer House, Chicago, for the bride-elect and her wedding party.

C.S.M.C. VETERAN UNIT WILL ELECT OFFICERS TOMO ROW

Miss Helen McKen 'e, city, will preside at the meeting of the Archdiocesan Board of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade Veteran Units to be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of Miss June Carpu, 27 North Locust street, Hagerstown.

Romance Thumbs a Ride

by ALLEN EPPES

CHAPTER FORTY TWO
"DID YOU have a nice time at the picnic?" Miss Martha asked, cutting into her fried egg. "I wanted to ask you last night, but it was pretty late when you got home, so I let you go on to bed without bothering you."

"The day was perfect," said Dian, "so far as weather conditions were concerned. And the water was fine."

Miss Martha eyed her niece quizzically.

"Yes, go on," she said. "I take it you didn't have a nice time."

"The first part of the day was lovely," said Dian. "But it didn't wear so well. I'm afraid I called Claire Lester by her right name—and as a result she's off me for life."

"That's nothing to grieve about," Miss Martha said. "I've been off Claire ever since she was big enough to make eyes at a male. The men were all right, weren't they?"

"They looked wonderful, and weren't bad in some other ways—but, being men, they fell for Claire's line and her act like a ton of brick."

"Men!" Miss Martha ate in silence for a moment. And then, with elaborate casualness, she said, "Speaking of men, Jerome Carr wants to drive me out to his house this afternoon. You know he's furnished all the bedrooms in Early American, and he wants my advice about curtains and bedspreads."

"How splendid!" said Dian. "You're going, of course."

"Well—yes—I think I am. After all, a man does need a woman's advice when he's furnishing a home." Miss Martha seemed a bit fussed. "If you'd treated Jerome half way decently, Dian, he would have asked you to go out with him."

"O, well, my loss, darling, is your gain," said Dian. "Have a good time, and be sure and don't let him use too much pink. You know you hate pink—even if it is supposed to make us women look younger; reflected light, and all that sort of thing."

Miss Martha warmed to the subject. "I think apple green would be nice for at least one of the rooms," she said. "Especially that big front room over the library."

"It's called 'the master bedroom' on the blueprints," Dian said. "Yes, apple green would be perfect. It's your favorite color, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Miss Martha. "And yours also. So I thought if you finally decided to marry Jerome, it would be nice to have the color you like in the bedroom you'll probably occupy."

"And if you decide to marry him," said Dian, "the apple green will be there waiting for you. Advise that color by all means—as it suits us both." She got up then. "I'm going now, darling," she said. "Oh, yes—suggest maroon hangings for the library—and a big, rich-looking rug of maroon and tan and deep yellow."

"But I was thinking of blue for the library," said Miss Martha. "No, blue is depressing at times. Maroons and tans would be better for a room in which one likes to relax and read."

"What time will you be home?" Miss Martha called. Dian started out the back door.

"I haven't the slightest idea," Dian replied. "Once I get started on the work I have in mind, I'll probably forget the passing of time. In fact, I may stay through the evening, and drive home after dark."

"But what about your dinner?" "I'll open a can of something. I'm taking along some biscuits to heat—and there's strawberry jam, you know. Also some coffee. Don't worry, darling, I shan't starve."

Miss Martha shook her head slowly. "Sometimes," she said, "I get the feeling that already you're more of a spinster than I am. And I don't like it, Dian—honest I don't."

"Maybe I am," said Dian. She came back to where her aunt was sitting. "But don't let it get you down. Some baby girls are booked for spinsterhood from the day of their birth. I probably am one of them." She kissed the top of Miss Martha's head. "But one can be a success even with spinsterhood as a career. You've been pretty fine at it yourself, darling."

"Oh, go 'long with you!" said Miss Martha. "I've been a spinster from necessity, and for no other reason. You might as well know that here and now!"

"Of course!" Dian patted the old woman's cheek. "But it won't be long now!"

Miss Martha pushed Dian away from her. "What on earth are you talking about?" she demanded.

"Think it over, darling—think it over!"

Dian ran across the kitchen, paused at the door to wave her hand in farewell, and then hurried out to the car.

For once, Betsy started without a moment's hesitation; and presently Dian was once more on her way to the farm. She couldn't bear the idea of staying in town. She didn't want to see or hear from any of the three other parts of the foursome—the foursome that had proved to be such a flop. She wanted to get away from Bill, and Paul and Claire—and leave them to work out their own salvations.

"And I hope they do it in fear and trembling," she thought, "like perfect idiots; and a girl without a brain in her head. To heck with them all!"

Dian stepped on the gas, and Betsy kicked up her heels.

Away they went.

And Dian, remembering what her Grandfather Weston had once said to her, "Don't stick alone brooding over things," were his words. "It's bad for one. Get out—take a long walk—get busy at some sort of physical activity—go for a swim—or come out here and talk it over with your old grandpappy!" And she had usually ended up talking it over with Grandpappy! And now, as the car sped onward, she wished with all her being that Grandfather Weston were out at the farm—waiting to take her in his arms and listen to her pour out all that was heavy upon her mind and her heart.

Back in his bedroom at the Ardenale Inn, Bill Rollins awoke to the sound of a tap upon his door. He sat up and brushed his hair from his eyes.

"Yes?" he said.

"Telegram, Mr. Rollins," a bell-boy replied.

"Okay! Be right with you," Bill got out of bed and padded across the room. He opened the door, took the message, found a tip for the boy, and then walked over to the window. "What a devilish day," he thought. "Too bad we didn't have this sort of weather yesterday, considering how everything turned out."

He tore open the yellow envelope and drew out the message. He had just finished reading it, had just said "Oh, boy!" when the telephone bell rang. He stuffed the telegram into his pajama pocket, and picked up the receiver.

Three Deeds Filed For Record Yesterday In County Court House

Three deeds were filed for record yesterday in the clerk's office Allegany county court house.

Richard J. Ruppert and Nellie Ruppert conveyed to Eugene S. Borgman and Mary C. Borgman a lot on Wilmont avenue.

Walter Livingood transferred to Frank Shanholtzer, lots Nos. 682 and 745, on Beckwith street, plat No. 2, Bowman's Cumberland Valley addition.

Edward S. Shue and Mary Shue of Baltimore conveyed to David A. Rayner a lot in Gilmore.

Three mortgages, nine conditional sales contracts and one chattel mortgage were also filed for record.

British Troops Prefer Serious Books

LONDON (AP)—British soldiers go in heavily for serious reading.

Books most in demand, the War Office has disclosed, are modern biographies, volumes about the war and its causes, descriptive analyses of nations in the news, and a wide variety of technical studies.

Not far behind in choice are contemporary plays, poetry, books on art, photography, gardening and cooking.

Many special requests are made for works on mathematics, hygiene, animal and bird life, and psychology.

One of the most popular single titles is Lawrence's "Seven Pillars of Wisdom."

Thousands of volumes—surprisingly few of them fiction—have been circulated among the troops. Traveling libraries—automobiles fitted to carry books—take literature to isolated searchlight and anti-aircraft stations.

Charles E. Dailey Will Leave Property To His Widow and Brother

The will of Charles E. Dailey, 111 N. Allegany street, was filed for probate yesterday in the register of wills office, Allegany county court house. Dailey, who died last month, was formerly associated with the Cumberland Dry Goods and Notion Company here.

He bequeathed his property, real and personal, to his widow, Bertha M. Dailey, with the exception of the real estate located in Jefferson county, W. Va., which he left to his brother, Harry F. Dailey. He named his widow executrix. The will was dated March 10, 1913.

County Commissioners Award Contract To Paint Former School Building

Contract to paint the wood work on the outside of the old Union street school building was awarded to J. N. O'Rear of 9 James street, lowest bidder, yesterday by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Four bids were submitted to the county engineer, John R. Carscaden, who presented them to the commissioners. Matthews and Whitman, 448 Walnut street bid $675; J. E. Dennison, 30 Ridgeway Terrace quoted $725; W. H. Poorbaugh, Narrows addition, bid $760 and O'Rear, $567.55.

The building is now used by the county for trial magistrates court, draft board, states attorney and other offices.

Work is to start immediately. Carscaden said.

356 Marriage Licenses Issued at Court House During Month of July

A total of 356 marriage licenses were issued in July at the clerk's office, Allegany county court house here, bringing the seven-month total for this year to 4,162, compared with 4,038 for the same seven-month period last year.

The total for last month, however, was 144 fewer licenses issued as in July of last year when 500 couples obtained marriage permits. The year before only 228 obtained licenses, in July.

The all time high month was in September 1938 when 666 licenses were issued. The record low period was in February of 1940, when the number dropped to eighty-one.

The Spanish settlement established at Cebu in 1565 served as the Philippines capital until 1871.

Sugar Consumers Will Register at Oldtown School Next Week

Registration of consumers for sugar for fall canning will be conducted in the Oldtown high school Tuesday, August 4, from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon and Thursday, August 6, from 1 to 5 p. m., the local War Price and Rationing Board announced yesterday.

Members of the deputy board who will have charge of the registration are Miss Grace Skelly, chairman, Miss Florence Skelly, Mrs. William Davis, Mrs. Bertha Miller, Mrs. Argyle Crabtree, Mrs. Monroe Keister and Mrs. Sue McFarland.

Atitlan lake, in the mountains of Guatemala, Central America, is surrounded by seven volcanoes.

Hawaii officially came under the jurisdiction of the United States on August 12, 1898.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

TRAINING RASPBERRY BUSHES

Although the roots of raspberries may live for many years, the canes are biennial.

After fruiting, raspberry bushes should be pruned back to about six or eight of the strongest young shoots. The previous year's growth should be removed at ground level as well as any weak or sick-looking canes. After removal, such canes should be burned in order to destroy any pests or disease harbored in them.

This Garden-Graph shows a red raspberry bush which has been properly trimmed and trained, and tied to a tall stake. Unless raspberries are trained and kept in place by one method or another, they soon become a thicket of suckers, each one crowding the other and competing for the food and moisture in the soil.

It is good gardening to mulch raspberries in the fall and then turn the mulch under the following spring. A well-fed bush can endure cold weather much better than one that is in a weakened condition for lack of sufficient nourishment.

Boats can now be sent full speed astern without either reversing the engines or shifting gears. A reversible pitch propeller has been developed by the industrial research laboratories of one company.

An Illinois man has invented a device for smoothing paper on walls and similar work that has four rollers working independently that is asserted to do better work than a single roller.

It's the same with the Colonel, too...

To private Willie Gillis, Jr., who hasn't issued a command yet and is very good at peeling potatoes, the Home Town Paper is a welcome package indeed. Willie's Colonel who hasn't peeled a potato in a long, long time (if ever) and who is very good at issuing commands is just as keen about news from home as Willie. . . It's the same with the Captains and the Majors and the Generals. And with the Ensigns and Admirals, too. . . They all want the news from home.

But to the boys who are suddenly thrust into an entirely new life. . . Separated from their homes and friends, news from home means so much more. . . And the farther they get from home, the more welcome the news.

Well we want to help them and you in seeing that they get what they want. . . Effective August 1st it will cost no more to send the local newspaper to any boy (or girl) in the armed forces than it does delivered to your home. . . Whether they're stationed at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, or Darwin, Australia, or any one of the many points throughout the world where our forces are in action, the cost will be the same. . . With the cost so little why not be certain they get all the news from home daily? . . . Check the rates below and give us a call, we'll gladly take care of all details.

Low Priced Pancake Flour To Cost One Cent More in Future

WASHINGTON, July 31. (AP)—Price ceilings have cracked again under pressure of higher raw material and labor costs, with approval by the Office of Price Administration of an increase of one cent a package on low-priced, unadvised brands of pancake and buckwheat pancake flour.

Leon Henderson OPA administrator, said that unless dealers had been granted speedy relief to permit profitable handling of the items, many sellers would have been forced to discontinue the low-priced lines.

"Customers would find in these stores only the high-priced products and they would in effect have been forced to pay fifty to 100 percent more than if the adjustment provided here in was not permitted," Henderson said.

Approximately seventy percent of many dealers' sales are in the low-priced brands which have been retailing at five to seven cents a package.

A Delaware man has invented sleeping bags made of two ply waterproof paper that have been found comfortable in cold weather out of doors.

The New York Infirmary for Women and Children in New York City, did not have one maternity death during 1941, according to the annual report of the president.

As many life insurance employees have already been called into the armed services as in the entire period of World War I.

Prices Effective Until Closing, Saturday, August 1, 1942.

Youngsters Need Additional Rest During Wartime

Doctor Says Quiet Period in Afternoon More Desirable than Ever

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

During summer a quiet period in the afternoon, say from one to three, has always been desirable. It is especially so in these days of war. Let the child over six do the lunch dishes. If there are several children, boys or girls, let each take his turn. Those old enough should also help to get the lunch or prepare it alone. I wish more mothers were home administrators and fewer of them mere slaves to their children; then they would be better mothers and their children better citizens.

Child's Daily Nap

Up to six the child should, of course, go for his nap each afternoon without exception. Older children also would do well to have a nap then, though I doubt if it should be required of many. Nevertheless, a quiet period of about two hours should be required of practically every growing child.

As a rule, no playmates should be allowed at that time, and the radio, except for soft, quiet music, should be silent.

Practically every youngster from 4 to 12, should be required to read or study from thirty minutes to one hour at the beginning of this quiet period, spending the remainder of the period at quiet amusement or relaxation.

If the youngster is an apt reader, he could profit from reading good books borrowed from the public library. Let the poor reader read either a book or magazine with very easy vocabulary and many interesting illustrations. Whether at 8 or 18, the child may read poorly and in that event the main problem is to put into his hands materials far easier than those meant for his age and school level, materials that have strong interest appeal.

Even high school and college youths not employed might profitably set themselves at reading for two hours each afternoon. Others could do so at night. Those students who tried hard last year but failed or barely passed would make their school or college work much easier next year by this plan for

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Josephine Gibney vs. Thomas E. Gibney, No. 18,788 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married June 10, 1915, in Miami, Florida, and that one child, named Eugene Gibney, was born October 11th, 1915, and resides with the plaintiff.

The bill further states that the defendant deserted and abandoned the plaintiff on or about October 4th, 1934, and that such desertion and abandonment has been continuous and uninterrupted for more than eighteen months, and is deliberate and final, and without hope of reconciliation. The plaintiff asks for the custody of Eugene Gibney, the minor child of said marriage; that the plaintiff is a resident of the State of Maryland, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon, this 27th day of July, 1942, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County in equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 15th day of August, 1942, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and purpose of this suit and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 27th day of August, 1942, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Afternoon for Quiet

For the average family of growing children, the daily rest period in the afternoon is very desirable. The sun is usually hottest from one to three. The children need the quietness; certainly the mother does. This period, too, is generally less subject to interruption by guests than is the evening. Besides, more of the family are together in the evening. The family dinner hour can be a happier time

Dr. Clendening Discusses Function Of the State as Health Guardian

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I have just attended the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Connecticut State Medical Society, the oldest organization of its kind which has a record of regular annual meetings since its establishment. In that 150 years the organized medical profession has done more than any other group to guide the state towards better health.

It is interesting and valuable to note the activities which this state group has found during its 150 years of existence to be primary requisites to health—activities over which they believe the state should preside.

Better Pre-Natal Care

First, it is to see that the babies born in the state are healthy. Primarily it is necessary to see that they are born alive. In Connecticut more babies survive birth than in any other place in the world. During the past fourteen years, fifty per cent more babies' lives have been saved, and this saving is ascribed to better pre-natal care for all mothers, rich, poor and in the middle brackets.

After the child is born, the care and especially the diet of the infant should be supervised. The baby's weight should be noted regularly as an index to its normal growth. Children in Connecticut are all required to be vaccinated against smallpox and diphtheria before entering school. (Of course, at an earlier age is really best but at least the state can require parents to have their children vaccinated before entering school.)

Mothers and fathers do not wait until the baby is sick before calling a doctor. There are clinics for regular examinations to ward off sickness. Especially emphasized are dental clinics. It has been found that dental decay can start as early as two years.

One child out of every four has some kind of eye trouble and attention to this makes for better scholarship in school.

State sanitaria for tuberculosis are considered a duty of the commonwealth. Connecticut is one of the few states that have enough beds to take care of all their tuberculosis citizens.

Food Inspection

Inspection of dairy plants and food handlers insures a pure supply of milk and meat, also vegetables from contamination. More than 300,000 laboratory tests of food and of taverns, grocery stores, restaurants and farms are made annually at the state laboratory—an examination every minute and a half.

Hospitals for the mentally afflicted were established early in Connecticut.

Industrial plants are all required to have examinations of their workers made regularly, an especially thorough one being made before employment. First aid and protection for those who labor is a prime necessity.

All persons applying for a license for marriage are examined before the license is issued.

Questions and Answers

M. S. 1. Is a craving for sweets an indication of diabetes? 2. Do swollen gums around the teeth indicate a shortage of vitamin C? Why do they seem worse when lemonade is drunk?

Answer: 1. A craving for sweets is not a symptom of diabetes. 2. If regardless of the fact that one has been on a balanced diet, including the citrus fruits, the gums are still swollen it is very likely to be a symptom of vitamin C lacks. A much more likely cause, however, is pyorrhea. Lemonade hurts because it is sour and stings the open places.

Sugar is the principal export of the Dominican Republic, representing three-fifths of the productive wealth.

Hardy County To Send Forty-Five for Induction into Army

Frostburg Group Completes Course In Gas Warfare

Defense Classes Will Open Monday for Members of Medical Unit

FROSTBURG, July 31—A class of Frostburg residents, taking a course in gas warfare and incendiary bombs, with Kenneth Crowe and Thomas Rank instructing, completed the course this week and qualified for official identification cards.

A new group will begin the same course Monday evening at 7 o'clock in Frostburg's control center, with Elmer S. Kight and Rank instructing.

Members of the medical unit and the civilian defense groups who have not completed the required training are asked to enroll Monday evening.

A class in first aid will be started Monday at 7 p. m. in the Elks home, East Main street, with James B. Chambers instructing. This class is open to all persons interested in qualifying for official certificates. All members of the medical unit, who have not taken the required ten hours of first aid training, are requested to attend this class.

Plan "Frostburg Day"

The Frostburg Business Men's Bureau last evening designated Tuesday, August 11, as "Frostburg Day" at the Cumberland Fair. Stores and other business houses will close at 12 o'clock, noon, to enable salespeople and other employees to attend.

The bureau will hold another meeting August 14.

Betty Simmons Weds

The marriage of Malcolm George Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Sr., Klondyke, and Miss Betty Lee Simmons, daughter of Mrs. Frank Densmore, Woodland, was solemnized Saturday evening, July 25, in First English Baptist church, by the Rev. C. B. Jones, pastor.

W.S.C.S. Has Chicken Dinner

Social Precedes Regular Meeting at Laymon's Farm

GRANTSVILLE, July 31—A fried chicken dinner preceded the regular meeting of the W.S.C.S. of the Grantsville Methodist church at the Laymon Farm last night.

The tables were decorated with pink, orchid and purple larkspur and white baby's breath.

Miss Viola Broadwater served as leader of the program, the subject of which was "Chaos and Darkness Heard and Took Their Flight." A piano prelude was played by Mrs. L. B. Schaefer.

The Meditation and Scripture reading were read by Miss Viola Broadwater. A reading, "How Dare We Pray?" was given by Mrs. V. R. Gillum; and "Why One Woman Was a Missionary," by Mrs. A. E. Warnick.

A prayer for Missionaries in Africa and America was given by Mrs. V. R. Gillum, who also conducted the business meeting.

Miss Viola Broadwater directed the singing. Mrs. Lee Layman was appointed as leader for the next meeting, which is scheduled to be held at the home of Mrs. L. B. Schaefer.

Drive Nets $110

Miss Viola Broadwater, chairman of the U.S.O.-Navy Relief campaign in the Grantsville area, reports a contribution totaling $110. Miss Broadwater was assisted by solicitors, Miss Rita Edwards, Miss Mildred Prickey and Miss Betty Jo Durst.

Come Out of the Kitchen

LAMB STEW OUTDOORS. Finish cooking at the picnic.

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
Wide World Food Editor

Summertime over a hot stove isn't much fun for mother, but summer appetites are usually as lusty as ever. The wise cook will plan her meals to keep her away from steaming pots and broiling ovens as much as possible and yet serve nutritious hearty meals to her hungry family. Dinner on the porch or in the backyard will be a welcome relief to everyone at the end of a blistering day.

A picnic supper needn't be limited to hot dogs, hamburgers or broiled steaks. One of the simplest and best ways to serve a hearty and nutritious meal to any number of picnic guests is to feature a lamb or beef stew as the backbone of your outdoor menu. The stew may be started on the stove during the cool hours of the morning, then taken along, pot and all, to the picnic, where you finish cooking it over the campfire or grill.

A bowl of green salad and an assortment of fresh fruits and cheese is all you need to complete the meal.

PRUNE NUT ICE CREAM:

Soak a tablespoon granulated gelatin five minutes in two tablespoons orange juice. Dissolve in one and one-third cups canned sweetened condensed milk, heated in double boiler. Cool and add one and one-half cups dried cooked prunes, one-half cup broken nuts, one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon, three tablespoons sugar, one-third teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon grated lemon rind and one-half cup heavy cream, whipped. Freeze four hours.

Lamb Stew Outdoors

(Start at home and finish outdoors) Two pounds lamb breast, three tablespoons flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons fat, six medium potatoes, six medium carrots, six medium onions.
Cut lamb into two-inch pieces. Sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper. Brown in fat heated in kettle. Cover by two inches with water. Add lid and simmer an hour. Add rest of ingredients and simmer twenty-five minutes. Carry to picnic and cook thirty minutes over fire. Serves six or seven.

ONE WAY TO SAVE

For health and economy, always cook a vegetable in a utensil with close fitting lid using as little water as possible. When steaming begins, lower gas flame in order to boil vegetable gently until it becomes just "tender-crisp." It then retains the maximum of its food values. Besides, about half the gas is needed to cook a vegetable this way than in the deep-water open pan method so frequently used.

CHEESE GOULASH A GOOD LUNCHEON DISH

This is a good luncheon dish because its tempting flavor will make the children want to take time off from play to eat.

Ingredients: Three-fourths cup chopped onion; three-fourths cup chopped green pepper; three tablespoons butter; one and one-half table spoons flour; three-fourths cup canned condensed tomato soup; three-fourths cup milk; one-half teaspoon salt; three cups shredded American cheese; hot crisp toast.

Directions: Cook the onion and green pepper in the butter until tender. Blend in the flour, then add the soup and milk. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add the salt and cheese; stir well until blended. Serve on hot crisp toast.

Children Will Like These Sandwiches

Now that you will be spending more time at home on week-ends, there will be more lunches to plan. A hot sandwich can be the basis of the meal with not much more than a dessert added.

Directions: In two cups of boiling water cook two cups sliced onions until tender (about ten minutes). Thicken with flour mixed with cold water and cook several minutes longer. Stir in two cups cut-up leftover or canned meat and heat thoroughly. Season with salt and pepper, and add dried celery tops or parsley if desired. A dash of chili sauce or tomato catsup is also good. Serve on bread or biscuits, using plenty of gravy. The children will like it.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

If you always have sauerkraut with spareribs, surprise the family and yourself this time, by barbecuing the spareribs. You are in for a treat.

Ingredients: Four pounds spareribs; one medium-sized onion; two tablespoons butter; two tablespoons vinegar; four tablespoons lemon juice; two tablespoons brown sugar; one-eighth teaspoon cayenne pepper; one cup catsup; three tablespoons Worcestershire sauce; one-half tablespoon ground mustard; one cup water; one-half cup celery or one tablespoon celery salt; two tablespoons fat.

Directions: Brown spareribs in a large skillet over high heat. When entirely browned, put them in a baking pan. Melt butter and brown onions cut fine; add other ingredients. When hot, pour over meat. Roast two hours in oven preheated to 350 degrees F. Serves four or five.

Porch Parties Preferred

There is no limit to the pleasure porch parties afford on hot, summer evenings, especially if you have plenty of refreshing bottled carbonated beverages within easy reach. Surround them with ice in a bucket or pan. Friends can help themselves. You may like to serve a big bowl of popcorn or some sandwiches, too.

Meat Cooking Hints

Cook meat at a low temperature to keep essential juices, for better flavor and to make the protein more tender. Braising, browning in a small amount of moisture with the lid on, is used for less tender meat cuts.

Fancy Dress Meat Loaf

A parties-up meat loaf is this: soak dried apricots for half an hour, drain and place in bottoms of buttered muffin tins, fill tin with meat loaf mixture, and bake forty-five minutes. Turn out with apricot on top.

Stocks Advance under Leadership Of Steels, Oils, Aviation, Motors

Better Prices Are Partly Erased at Close of Dull Day

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—The stock market revised its declining trend today as buying support returned for steels, rails, oils, aviation, coppers, motors and assorted specialties.

Both U. S. Steel and Bethlehem jumped more than a point each in the first hour and gains of as much were sprinkled over other departments. At the finish top marks were reduced in the majority of cases.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up 2 of a point at 36.4 and on the month showed a net return of 1.1 points, transfers of 307,200 shares compared with 250,640 the day before.

U. S. Steel ended up 1/2 and Bethlehem 1 1/2. Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet were ahead fractions although both concerns reported substantial drops in earnings for the June quarter.

Others in front included Santa Fe, Great Northern, Chrysler, United States Rubber preferred and common, Anaconda, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, Standard Oil (N.J.), Texas Co. and Western Union.

On the offside for small amounts were American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Dow Chemical, Eastman Kodak, J. C. Penny and Union Carbide.

Among improved stocks in the Curb were Gulf Oil, Humble Oil, American Cyanamid, Glen Alden Coal, Lake Shore, N. J. Zinc, Sherwin Williams and United Wall Paper. Turnover aggregated 53,271 shares versus 52,065 Thursday.

Theaters Today

Silence Is Golden For Hobart Bosworth

Hobart Bosworth, one of the great names in the era of the silent screen as star, writer and director, got a chance to direct a scene for a talking picture.

It was for "The Gay Sisters," currently at the Strand theater, in which he plays an important role for Warner Brothers. But it also was a silent scene.

In the script Barbara Stanwyck recites to her two sisters—Geraldine Fitzgerald and Nancy Coleman—the story of her marriage to George Brent. As she talks, the action she describes unfolds on the screen.

Director Irving Rapper was making these scenes, the scenes without dialogue which Miss Stanwyck describes. Bosworth was on hand to perform his duties as the minister who marries the two stars.

He wasn't needed for the first shot of the day. Rapper invited Bosworth to handle the scene inasmuch as he was experienced in silent picture technique. The white-haired veteran smilingly took over and demonstrated how such scenes should be shot.

The scene was a novel experience for all the players concerned as they were inclined to overdo the pantomime.

Events in Scarlet Area Are Basis for Film

One of those ever-appealing, full-blooded romantic adventures, "Men of Texas," opened to popular approval yesterday at the Liberty theater. Universal has hit the entertainment target squarely with this one. It is one of those pictures obviously designed to please every type of audience. Sure-fire dramatic elements have been skillfully blended to amplify the excitement and running suspense.

The list of headline personalities in the cast might guarantee the merit of almost any picture. In this picture, which is based on the deviltry and romance of post Civil war days in the Lone Star State, the players are unusually effective.

Foremost in the group are Robert Stack, Brod Crawford and Jackie Cooper. Stack portrays the Chicago newspaper reporter assigned to cover disturbances in the teeming Southwest. Crawford appears as a masquerading bandit and young Cooper is seen as the innocent victim of a renegade's bullet.

Miss Gwynne has the role of a southern belle in sharp contrast to the hard-boiled nightclub chorine she recently portrayed in "Broadway." Ralph Bellamy wears the uniform of a Union Major while Jane Darwell and Leo Carrillo have distinctly memorable assignments.

New York Produce

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Eggs 7.581; firm. Whites: fancy to extra fancy 39 1/2-45; specials 39; standards 36-36 1/2; fancy heavy mediums 38 1/2-41; mediums.

Butter 33.444; steady. Creamery, higher than 92 score and premium marks 40-41 1/2. 92 score (cash market) 39 1/2. 88-91 score 37-39 1/2. 85-87 score 35 1/2-36 1/2.

BADGES OF HONOR

Patches are badges of honor in this year of wartime thrift, and the family scrap bag emerges as an important part of the modern home front scene. The Simplicity pattern pictured here is a mother-daughter style, so if you have lots of scraps make a matching patchwork dress for your young hopeful and saunter thriftily through the summer together.

form of a Union Major while Jane Darwell and Leo Carrillo have distinctly memorable assignments.

Chaplin Claims Hard Work Is Best Formula

One of the most amazing success stories in the world is Charlie Chaplin's.

At the age of 28, he was not only one of the most famous and best loved men in the world, but wealthy in his own right. The same year he built the Chaplin Studios starting his own producing company which, since its inception in 1918, has never produced anything but artistic as well as financial successes.

The son of theatrical parents, he earned his own living from the time he was nine years old. By his own admission, his schooling was spasmotic. But even as a very young boy, those who knew him say Charlie was studious. When he joined the Karno Repertoire Company as a lad in his teens, he was never to be found in the "gay spots" when the day's work was done, as did the other young fellows in the troupe. Instead, he stayed at home and figured out "funny business" for his routines.

That he succeeded as a result of his industry was proved when he was spotted by Mack Sennett shortly after he arrived in America. From that memorable day when he entered pictures his rise was meteoric and now he is the reigning comedian of the screen world. Currently, Charlie is starring in his production of "The Gold Rush," the current attraction at the Maryland theater, through United Artists release.

Smiley Burnette Has Soft Drink Weakness

Smiley Burnette, himself a life-long teetotaler as far as strong drinks are concerned, has a great weakness for soft drinks and loves to putter around in the kitchen of his San Fernando Valley ranch concocting various fruit brews.

One of his favorite liquid inventions is what he calls "South American Papiya," a mixture of grapefruit juice, pineapple juice and lemon juice.

During the filming of "Heart of the Rio Grande," now showing at the Embassy theater, he brought a thermos bottle full of "South American Papiya" to the Republic lot, and allowed his co-workers the drink of sips, inferring that the drink had the combined potency of vodka, tequila and hill country corn likker. Their cautious reaction gave

Smiley material for many a good natured "rib."

"Heart of the Rio Grande" starring Gene Autry, ends today at the Embassy.

Colby Hanover Looms as Choice In Hambletonian

Forty Three-Year-Olds
Entered in Harness
Classic Aug. 12

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, July 31 (Wide World)—They haven't got around to rationing hay yet, so the Hambleton stake, the Kentucky derby of harness racing, will be staged as usual Aug. 12 on the Good Time Park triangle at drowsy Goshen, N. Y., which for one day each year basks in the national spotlight.

As usual is used advisedly. The horses will trot as usual, and the shirt-sleeved fans will gnaw on fried chicken under the big striped tent where the neighboring church

But nobody knows just how many of these fans there will be this year, what with transportation something of a problem. In the past the crowds have been estimated at upwards of 40,000, but the figures have a chamber of commerce bulge.

Anyway, it's always a whopping crowd for such a setting, and there always is plenty to talk about when it is all over, with such incidents as Brown Berry's $40,000 stumble in the final heat in 1933 when Driver Fred Egan had the purse all but won.

Whirlway Preferred To Win Arlington Handicap

Field of Nine Is Slated To Start In $31,600 Event

Turfdom's All-Time Money Winning Champ May Be 2 to 5 Choice

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, July 31. (AP) — With eight other horses daring to oppose him, Whirlway, turfdom's all-time money winning champion, probably will go to the post a 2 to 5 favorite to win the $31,600 Arlington handicap tomorrow.

If Whirlway triumphs, as almost everyone figures he will, and all nine horses start, he will pick up another $24,000 to add to his fabulous bank roll of $454,336. It will be "Whirlway's" eleventh start of the year and his first since winning the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap to eclipse Seabiscuit's previous all-high money winning record of $437,700.

Whirlway's Favorite Distance

The race at a mile and a quarter — Whirlway's best distance — will wind-up fashionable Arlington Park's richest season in history with a mutual handle of about $200,000 in a thirty-four-day stand.

Ben Jones, trainer of Whirlway, declares the horse is thriving on racing. He will be shipped to Saratoga Springs Sunday to fill Eastern engagements which, he hopes, will bring Whirlway's money winning total up to $500,000 by the end of the season. Eddie Arcaro, the jockey who gave Shut Out such a magnificent ride in winning the Arlington classic a week ago, will fly from Saratoga Springs to ride Whirlway.

Alsab Is Missing

Those accepting the challenge to oppose Whirlway are: Sirocco, winner of the 1940 Arlington classic; the Irish-bred Rounders, which finished second to Whirlway in the Massachusetts handicap; Reading II, Australian importation of Louis B. Mayer, Hollywood motion picture producer; No Competition, Pumpgun, Equitable, Best Seller, winner of the Equiptoise mile, and Staretor, which finished second to Whirlway in the 1941 Kentucky derby.

Missing was Alsab, 1941 juvenile champion, owned by Albert Sabath, Chicago attorney. The colt, recovering from a leg injury, has not raced since winning the Belmont stakes in June.

HAROLD SMITH QUILTS COACHING POSITION AT PIEDMONT HIGH

PIEDMONT, W. Va., July 31. — Harold Smith, Piedmont high school coach, has resigned to accept a similar position at the Conemaugh Township high school, Davisville, Pa.

He will leave in about two weeks to assume his duties. During the summer, he has managed the Piedmont municipal swimming pool.

"The Authority on Authorities."

A CHANCE THAT PAYS
AN "ALMOST stopper," such as three cards headed by a jack or a doubleton queen, or perhaps four little cards, may be considered enough to hazard a No Trump game contract, in preference to a minor suit game, if your partner has indicated pretty fair general strength. That is especially true if your hand is of a balanced pattern, containing no very pronounced suit-length value or any ruffing advantages such as are afforded by a singleton or void suit. Taking 11 tricks at a minor is in such cases a greater gamble than chancing your partner's having the cards that turn your quasi-stopper into a positive one.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
4 ♦ Pass 5 ♦ Pass

No matter what South tried on this deal, he could not make his contract after West led the diamond 4. There was bound to be one loser in spades and two in hearts, and the defenders got them, to beat the contract a trick.

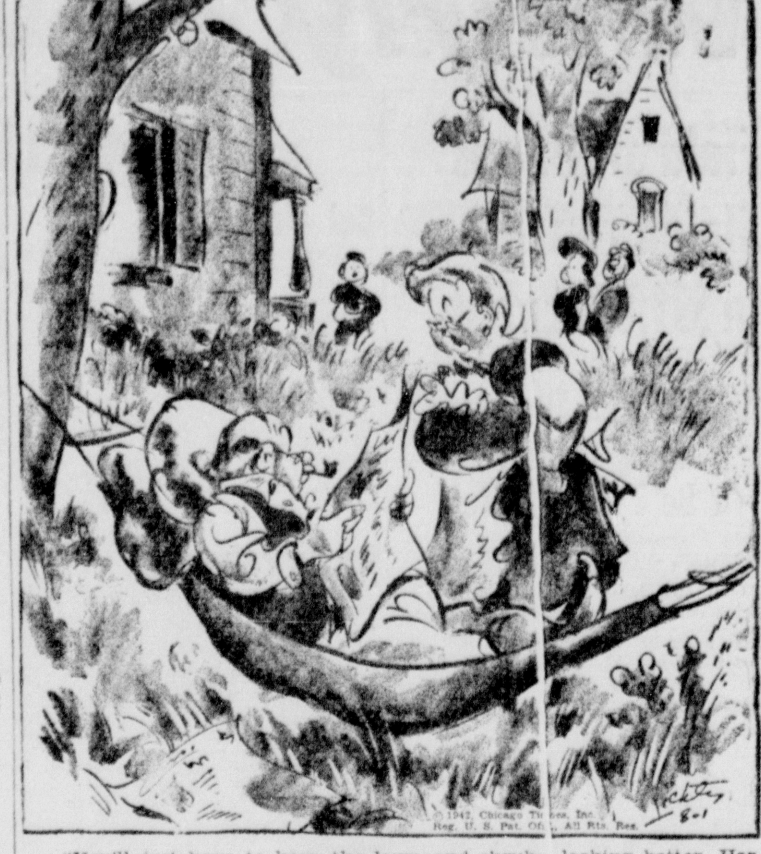

After the 3-Diamonds by North, South, with his evenly balanced hand, positive stoppers in spades and clubs, and almost a stopper in hearts, should have bid 3-No Trumps. His reason for not doing so was his fear of the heart suit. North's big bid, however, which could not possibly be based entirely on diamond strength, but had to guarantee a certain amount of power in other suits, made it extremely likely he held something in hearts. Even the Q and a single guard would have been enough, or four to the 10, or possibly any four at all, possibly even any two if the longer opponent had no more than four. As it is, nine tricks could not have been stopped.

Your Week-End Lesson
What do veterans of the game mean when they speak of a "combination tenace"? Can you give an example of one with which the declarer can finesse by leading the suit himself? Also an example of one which will work to his advantage only if he can force a defender to lead the suit to him? Can you recall or construct a single hand in which both are exemplified in different suits?

$100,000 Damage Suit Is Filed Against B. and O.

Action Taken by Mrs. Lottie I. Benson as Result of Accident

A suit for $100,000 damages was docketed in United States District Court here yesterday by Mrs. Lottie I. Benson against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the death of her husband, Chester C. Benson, 34, who was fatally injured in an accident in the yards near Williams street February 22, 1942.

The suit was filed in the federal court because the railroad is engaged in interstate commerce and the United States court has jurisdiction in the case. The bill of complaint, filed through Edward J. Ryan, attorney, states that Benson's death resulted when a yard engine and another locomotive collided.

Benson's death was caused through the alleged negligence of servants of the railroad and not for want of care on the part of Benson, the bill states. Damages are asked for the use of Mrs. Benson and her eleven children, the bill further declares.

Dr. Linne H. Conson, deputy county medical examiner, who examined Benson's body at the time of the accident said his body was badly mangled when crushed between the cab and tender of the locomotive. Acetylene torches were used to extricate Benson's body.

The accident occurred when a mallet type engine traveling "light" and a yard engine sidwiped in the yards. B. and O. officials at the time remarked that Benson had only been employed a short time prior to the accident.

C. Edgar Keller, deputy United States district court clerk here, said it was the largest damage suit filed since the federal district court was opened here in 1907. Keller said a suit for $50,000 damages was filed some years ago by a man who had suffered the loss of an eye in an accident.

Drunken Driving Costs Clarksburg Man $127.90

Charge of Reckless Driving against Howard Bennett Is Dismissed

A Clarksburg, W. Va., motorist who crashed against the rear of a parked car in LaVale on July 7 was fined $127.90 yesterday in trial magistrates' court on charges of drunken driving and failing to stop after an accident. A charge of reckless driving was dismissed.

Howard Bennett, the motorist, was apprehended due to a most unusual precaution of the owner of the parked car. Clarence D. Frost, of LaVale, was playing cards at a friend's home that evening and before leaving his parked car he turned on an ingenious electrical "burglar alarm".

Bennett came down Route 40 toward Cumberland and crashed against the Frost car and the alarm sounded. Frost rushed from the house, noted the West Virginia car's license number, and then gave chase in his own car. Bennett was arrested by city police and later turned over to Trooper George W. Browning of the state police.

The case had been postponed since July 8 until yesterday and Bennett was released on $1,000 bond for the hearing.

McKeldin Is Surprised at Sentiment For a Change in State Government

GOP Candidate for Governor Says Many People Are Dissatisfied

[By The Associated Press] The Republican party quietly tightened its campaign lines today as Theodore R. McKeldin, GOP aspirant for the governorship, said he was "surprised by the state-wide sentiment for a change at Annapolis."

One of the campaign problems uppermost on the GOP agenda was the choice of a candidate for attorney general. William A. Gunter of Cumberland, choice of a GOP campaign committee for the nomination, notified the party he was declining the offer on the advice of his physician.

W. David Tilghman, Jr., Republican State Central Committee chairman, said the candidate would be a Western Marylander and that several names were being considered. He refused to disclose the names but it was learned men in Garrett, Allegany and Frederick counties are on the GOP list.

To Select State Chairman Another important Republican problem is the selection of a state party chairman to succeed Tilghman who has announced he will withdraw as chairman immediately after the party convention Sept. 18. Galen L. Tait is one of the Republican leaders mentioned for the

First Aid Classes For Air Wardens Will Start Aug. 4

Arrangements have been made to start a class in first aid for air raid wardens Tuesday, August 4, from 7 to 9 p. m., in the basement of St. Mary's church, Oldtown road. Instructions will be given on Tuesday and Thursday nights of each week until the required number of hours are completed. Others interested in any branch of civilian defense work are invited to attend. The class will be taught by Miss Betty Jane Breakiron.

Allegany County Teachers To Hear Robert Kazmayer

Noted Writer and Lecturer Will Address Meeting at Fort Hill, Sept. 8

Robert Kazmayer, of New York, an outstanding writer, news commentator and lecturer on world events will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of principals and teachers of Allegany county public schools in the auditorium of Fort Hill high school, Tuesday, September 8, the day preceding the opening of the 1942-43 school term.

Charles L. Koop, superintendent of schools, yesterday said that the public will be invited to hear the address of Kazmayer, who is regarded as being unique among speakers on the platform today. Starting out directly upon graduation from high school, he spent two years working his way completely around the world visiting Central and South America, Japan, China, Australia, India and Egypt. In school for a year and off again, Kazmayer visited England, France, Germany, Poland and Soviet Russia.

War Ended 1939 Trip In the years since then he has made five more trips over the European continent and two visits to Central and South America. His trip to Europe in the summer of 1939 ended just as the war broke out and his last trip to the Latin American continent was made last summer.

A native of Rush, N. Y., Kazmayer was educated in the schools of Rochester, attended the University of Rochester, class of 1932, and prepared for the Methodist ministry at Colgate-Rochester Divinity School. Holding ordination both as deacon and elder, he has occupied for four years one of the historic pulpits of Rochester, that of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church.

Kazmayer has lectured before Rotary clubs in Detroit, Newark, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Buffalo, Boston, Baltimore, Kansas City and Indianapolis, and has also talked before Kiwanis clubs in Lancaster, Albany, Hartford, Columbus, Erie Syracuse, Ulca and Rockford, and school groups in numerous cities.

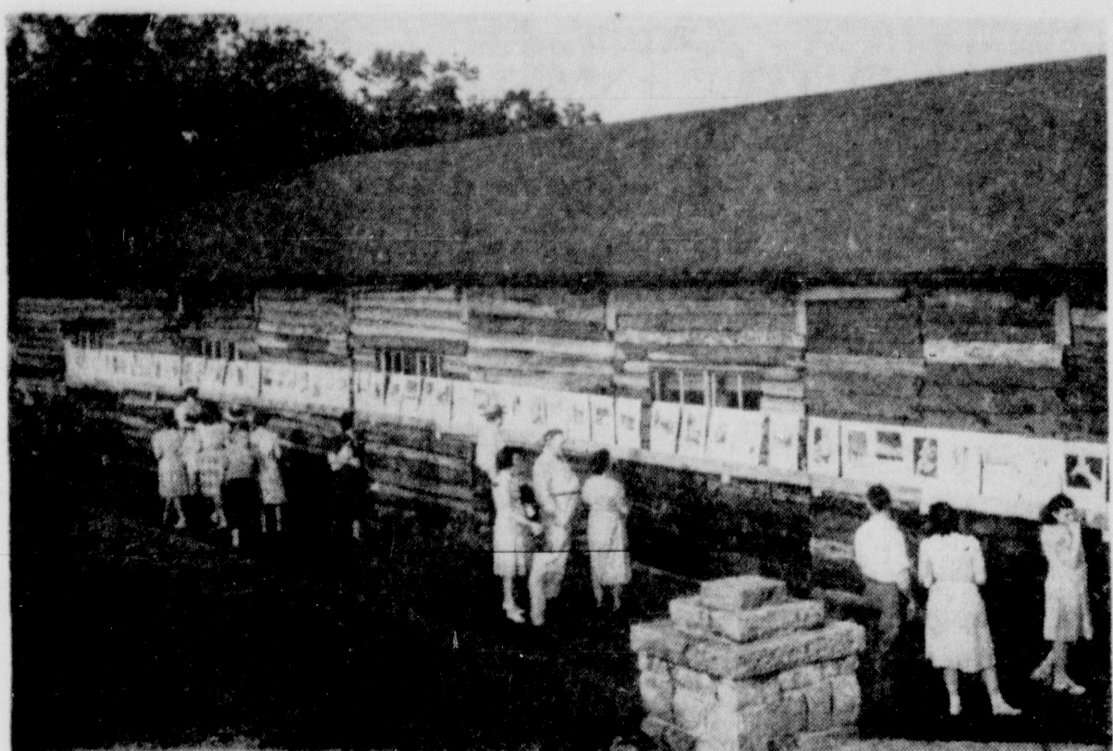

To Lecture at 11 a. m. One of ten significant subjects will be designated for his lecture here, scheduled for 11 a. m.

Two Doe Deer Are Reported Killed

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, stated yesterday that two doe deer have been reported killed in the past week.

Minke said a young doe was found yesterday morning along McMullen highway. He said the deer was evidently struck by a passing motorist. The second doe reported was found last Saturday morning by a Baltimore and Ohio train crew along the tracks, near Fairgo, with two of its legs broken. The deer had to be destroyed.

Minke said neither could be used for venison.

PICNICKERS ARE PHOTO CRITICS—Members of the local miniature Camera club submitted their works to the critical eyes of picnickers attending the annual Baltimore and Ohio Veterans outing held Thursday in Constitution park. After 396 votes had been cast by persons viewing the photographs displayed on the side of a building Morris Fram announced that Raymond Vines' "Little Mother", a picture of a child and her doll, won first prize, with Benny F. Epstein's "A Lad and His Dog", second. The contest was presented as an added feature at the veteran's picnic. Shown above are a few of the picnickers viewing the photographs before they voted.

Twenty-four Take Out Applications For Police Tests

Deadline for Filing Is Aug. 8, Five Days Preceding Examination

With one week yet to go before the deadline date for filing applications, twenty-four men have taken out papers at city hall for the examination of applicants for positions on the Cumberland Police Department, which will be conducted Thursday, August 13 at 7 p. m., in Fort Hill high school.

All applications must be in the hands of the city clerk properly executed and filled out in ink and with a medical examination report attached thereto not later than 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, August 8.

The Board of Civil Service Commissioners of the City of Cumberland, which will conduct the examination, has ruled that all applicants must be between twenty-one and thirty-five years old. The minimum weight of applicants is fixed at 140 pounds and the minimum height is five feet, eight inches.

Those who have taken out application forms since July 28, when the board changed the age limit to thirty-five years from forty-three, include:

Court Orders Trustees To Hold Public Sale Of Milling Company

Allegany County Circuit Court sustained an exception of F. Brooke Whiting to the proposed sale of R. D. Johnson Milling Company property and ordered trustees to offer the property at public sale.

The trustees, Albert A. Doub and J. Philip Roman, had arranged to sell the property for $6,000, but Whiting, who holds stock in the company, petitioned the court saying that one of his clients, Abraham Feldstein, was ready to offer $7,000 for the property and had signed a cashier's check with the clerk of court, for $1,000.

The court decree was signed by Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, yesterday.

Youth Cuts Leg In Attempt To Catch Swing while Swimming

Robert Stuckey, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stuckey, Corriganville, was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for a deep laceration in his right leg.

Stuckey told hospital attaches he suffered the injury as he attempted to catch a swing from which he had been jumping into water where he was swimming near his home. He said he was running to the swing and fell against a board that he had not noticed. Attaches said he was discharged after receiving treatment.

Tire Dealers Must File Inventories, Barnard Declares

Only 50 Per Cent Have Reported on Stocks of June 30 to Local Board

Tire dealers of this area are called upon by Robert E. Barnard, chairman of the local War Price and Rationing Board, to report their inventories of all serviceable tires—new, used, retreaded and re-capped as of June 30.

Leo M. McCormick, state director of the Office of Price Administration, yesterday advised the board that he was very much concerned with the few returns received on the R-17 tire inventory reports which were to be sent to the local office by all tire dealers July 25.

The OPA head asked the board's co-operation in contacting the dealers in this territory to see that these inventories are filed by all dealers just as promptly as possible.

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and member of the local rationing board, stated that letters have been forwarded to tire dealers who have failed to file inventories, urging their co-operation in the matter. It is estimated that only fifty per cent of the thirty tire dealers in this area have turned in reports to date.

Figures Are Important The inventory figures sought, which are to be filed with the local board, will provide a vast amount of new information not heretofore available to help in charting the course of rationing.

Reports, which are required under the terms of a new amendment to the Revised Tire Rationing Regulations, must be filed by all persons who sell or hold new or used tires and tubes for sale—tire dealers, automobile supply companies, motor vehicle dealers and automobile finance companies. They are to sell each seller's stocks of passenger car and truck tires and tubes, tractor and farm equipment tires and "all other" tires, of whatever kind, not mounted on a vehicle. Used tires as well as new are to be shown on the form if they are unable in

400 Will Attend Potomac Council Camps This Year

259 Registered at Camp Potomac Which Closes Season Today

Two hundred and fifty-nine leaders and scouts spent at least one week at Camp Potomac, the summer camp of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, which concluded its 1942 season today, according to Raymond C. Lalor, scout executive.

Of the eighteen troops represented, thirteen were accompanied by scout masters and five were accompanied by assistant scoutmasters and committeemen. Members of ten troops remained at camp for the full week.

Others Conclude Season Three hundred and thirteen leaders and scouts of the council have spent at least one week at camp so far this season, including twenty of Troop 30, of Piedmont, who camped at Minco Park; four of Troop 63, Petersburg, who camped on the South Branch; and twenty of Troop 62, of Piedmont, who spent a week at Swaugers dam near New Germany.

Approximately 400 leaders and scouts will have spent some time at camp by the time the curtain is lowered on the 1942 season, Lalor said.

Go To Camps Monday Forty-five scouts and leaders of the New Creek District, open a week's camp Monday, August 3, at Greenland Gap and on the same day twelve scouts of Troop 40, of Kitzmiller, of which the Rev. Howard Rister is scoutmaster, will go to Camp Galilee, Terra Alta, W. Va., for a week.

As a fitting climax to Potomac Council's summer activities, the Sea Scout Camp will be held from August 8 to 16 at Deep Creek lake in Garrett county. This will be a joint camp with Washington-Greene council, of Pennsylvania, also participating.

Applications for the sea scout camp are now being received by Lalor.

Woman Asks Divorce With Custody of Children To Go to Their Father

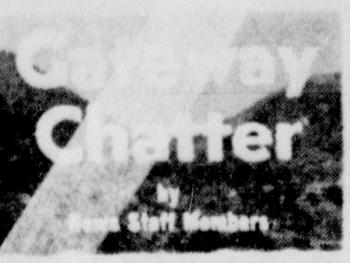

Divorce proceedings were entered in Allegany county circuit court yesterday by Catherine Mary Elizabeth Holschneider of Cumberland against John Joseph Holschneider of Deer Park, charging desertion. An answer to her bill of complaint was filed by her husband in which he neither admits nor denies the charge and requests that she submit proof of same.

The bill states the couple married in Oakland, Md., January 4, 1938 and have not lived together for eighteen months. There are two children, both of whom reside with their father. The mother requests that the father be granted custody of the children and that he provide for their care and education.

Col. W. Preston Lane of Hagerstown. In addition to the Eighth battalion, six other battalions of guardsmen will be in camp at the same time.

O'Connor To Visit During the training period, Brig. General Dwight H. Mohr, commander of the guard will be in charge. Governor O'Connor plans to visit the camp Friday and will probably review the troops.

The camp will have its own medical detachment with hospital and first aid units. In addition to a number of physicians from other parts of the state two physicians from this county expect to attend. They are Captain John K. Rozum of this city, attached to Columbia State Guard, commanded by Lt.

Greetings Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Nurses

The big news around here seems to be the opening of the ten day race meet at Fairgo next Tuesday. Already seventy-five thoroughbreds are here and many more are expected over the weekend. Seven hundred applications have been made for the 396 stalls at Fairgo—a fleet of thirty or more trucks, several steam and power shovels and other equipment have been moved to the Savage river dam and work has started on final stages of the control project and it is hoped to have the dam completed by December 1.

Former State Senator William A. Gunter has declined to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, saying his health will make it impossible to make a campaign.

F. Harry Rockwell, who has served as managing president of the Western Maryland Motor Club has resigned. The 1943 convention of the Border States Moose Association will be held in Cumberland.

Cumberland Elks Lodge will send five delegates to the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Elks Association convention in Baltimore Aug. 8 and 9.

Thirty girls entered the contest with Miss Betty Anne West winning second award and Miss Alma Monnett Simpson third.

It was revealed at the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce this week that prospects are good for building even more needed houses in Cumberland than the sixty-five already authorized by the federal government.

Roy Rice, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Rice, died Tuesday night of a fractured skull suffered when a bicycle on which he and four other boys were riding skidded on a sharp curve in South Cumberland and threw them to the street.

The August tire quota for Allegany county has been set at thirty new tires for passenger cars, 157 for tires and trucks and 139 retreads.

Speaking of tires, William M. Somerville, local attorney and chairman of the Transportation Co-ordination Committee, told Rotarians this week that the people of Allegany county must do more than they have been doing to save tires.

Special bus service will not be available for the Cumberland fair this year due to an order from the Office of Defense Transportation banning such service this year.

Private passenger cars and taxis will be the principal methods of transportation for fair and race goers this year.

The Rev. Ambrose H. Beavin, rector of an Episcopal church in Hot Springs, Ark., died Tuesday. He was a former rector at Emmanuel Episcopal church here.

Police and Fire Commissioner James Orr is considering a plan to purchase a new aerial truck to be added to the city's fire fighting equipment.

Building permits in the city showed a marked decrease this month, only eight being issued. Records at the city hall reveal that only eleven new homes have been built here this year.

The Board of Civil Service Commissioners of Cumberland ruled this week that applicants for positions on the Cumberland Police Department must be between twenty-one and thirty-five years of age.

The minimum weight of applicants will remain at 140 pounds and the minimum height is five feet and eight inches.

Badminton Craze Is Spreading Here, Popular Now on City's Playgrounds

Six Places Fully Equipped; Youngsters Go for It in a Big Way

Make plenty of room for badminton, folks. Imported forty-five years ago from England, it was a sport practically forgotten twenty years ago in this country, but now threatens to obliterate indoor tennis.

Locally, badminton first was introduced here by persons from England with the establishment of the Celinee plant here but it was not until three or four years ago that an organized effort was made to put the game on a firm footing in Cumberland.

Now Playground Sport For the first time the sport is now being popularized on the city playgrounds. The city has purchased equipment for the six playgrounds, namely, East Side, West Side, North End, South Cumberland, Mount Royal Avenue and Gephart, and the youngsters are going for the game in a big way.

In case you don't know, badminton is a game of terrific sustained volleying. Ranking tennis players who have tried it, insist that three sets of badminton demand more of energy than does a five-set tennis match.

A shuttlecock substitutes for a ball in badminton, the shuttlecock being the shape of a small orange, cut in half. It weighs seventy-three to eighty-five grains. On the flat side fourteen to sixteen feathers are imbedded, these feathers being two and a half to two and three-quarter inches long. The racket—or "bat"—can be any shape or size, but must not exceed six ounces in weight.

The shuttlecock must be hit while in the air. If it falls to the ground, it counts as point against you. No one can hit a shuttlecock any definite distance if he hits the feathered side. He must strike the rounded side, else the shuttlecock will fall to clear the net, counting as a point against him. So the player must actually gauge the whirl of the ball before striking it for distance.

Action Is Cyclic Action is cyclic when two great players are battling in a singles match, or when a doubles is in progress, because of the peculiar antics of
